

Taking a break in Studies (Intercalation) and undergraduate student funding

The information provides guidance for undergraduate 'home' students who are who are in receipt of statutory student funding from direct.gov/studentfinance studying a course billed programme.

If you are experiencing serious personal issues and you need to take a break in your studies, also known as intercalation. This means you're taking time out from your course with the intention of re-joining. You are still considered a student for most purposes; student finance is not usually available during the intercalation period.

Your student finance provider will reassess your student finance based on the number of days you attended your course. They will then send you a letter explaining how much loan you must repay if you have an overpayment. The amount you were overpaid will usually be taken off your Maintenance Loan payments when you return. You might be able to get student finance while you are away from your course if you suspend due to illness, caring, bereavement or another serious personal reason. More information is available on the gov.uk website Student finance if you suspend or leave your course: Getting student finance while you suspend your studies - GOV.UK You must contact SFE to discuss your circumstances due to the specific criteria which is applied by SFE. If you're a student from Scotland, Wales or Northern Ireland, contact: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Student Awards Agency Scotland (SAAS) • Student Finance Wales • Student Finance Northern Ireland |
| NHS Training Grant | If you're a student studying a pre-registration health course and in receipt of the NHS Training Grant, payments will be stopped until you return to your course. You are obliged to contact the NHS to inform them of your decision. See the NHS LSF Guidance booklet for more information. |
| Benefits | If you intercalate due to ill health or caring responsibilities, you may be able to claim certain benefits until your agreed course return date. For further information and advice visit Full time students and benefits - Benefits during time out from study Turn2us |
| Cumbria Bursary | Students who qualify for the Cumbria Bursary will have their entitlement suspended during the Intercalation period and will receive no further payments. Payments will resume when you return to your course. |
| Student Support Fund | The University Student Support Fund cannot replace maintenance loan provision whilst students are intercalating. Students in financial difficulty can apply for short term emergency support whilst they assess their financial circumstances. The fund can also provide emergency support during the period just before returning to course, for example if benefits have ceased. |
